CSSA review
Which design change helps a visitor most?

Why Websites Exist

How Design Demonstrates Purpose

Today’s goal

Identify a site’s primary purpose.
Use a specific CSSA choice to explain how its design supports that purpose.

CSSA review

Content: what it contains
Structure: how it is organized
Style: how it looks
Accessibility: how people can use it

Purpose

What does the visitor come to do?

The purpose helps explain the design choices.

Three common purposes

Information: learn or find answers
Entertainment: enjoy an experience
Sales: buy a product or service

Checkpoint

What number begins the title of Kubrick’s A Space Odyssey?

Information

Purpose: learn or find answers

Examples: Wikipedia, weather websites, school information pages

Information design

Clear headings organize a topic.
Search helps visitors find an answer.
Articles explain ideas in detail.

Evidence and explanation

A topic menu is Structure.

It helps visitors find the information they want.

Information check

How does your highlighted feature help someone learn or find an answer?

Checkpoint

Which four-digit movie title follows two British soldiers during World War I?

Entertainment

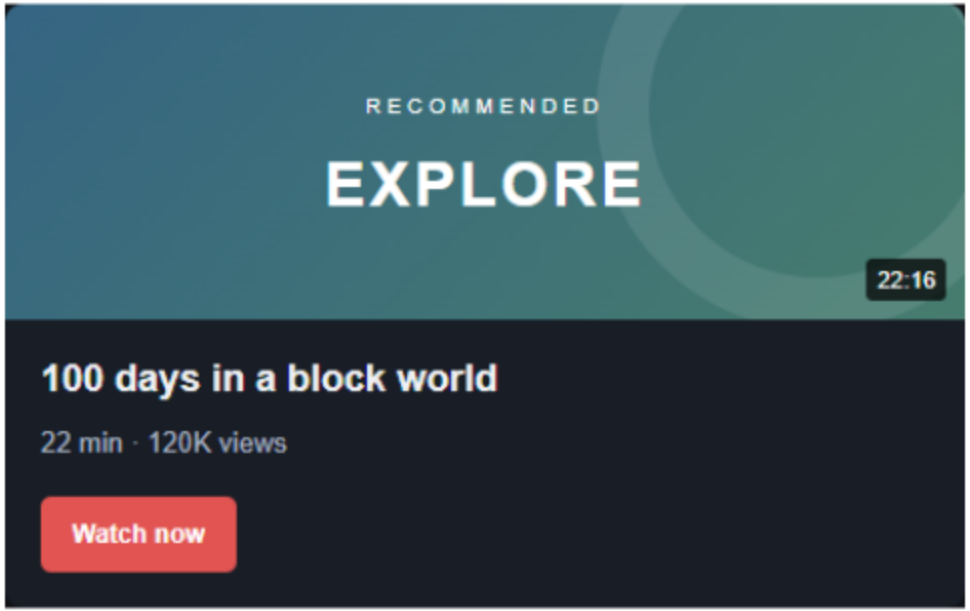

Purpose: enjoy an experience

Examples: video, music, and browser-game websites

Entertainment design

A title and preview are Content.

They help visitors choose something to watch.

Entertainment check

How does it work?

Checkpoint

Which four-digit movie title comes from George Orwell’s story about Big Brother?

Sales

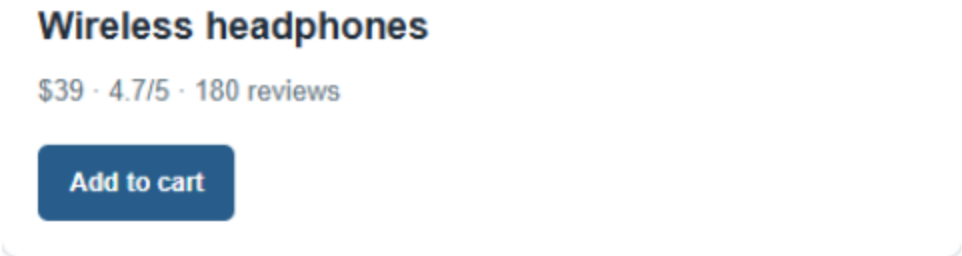

Purpose: buy a product or service

Examples: online shops and ticket websites

Sales design

Prices and reviews are Content.

They help visitors compare options before buying.

Sales check

Which feature would help a customer decide to buy?
Why?

More than one purpose

A video site may sell subscriptions.
A shop may publish a helpful guide.

Which goal does most of the design support?

Primary and secondary

Primary: the main goal
Secondary: an additional goal

Both claims need design evidence.

Questions?

Checkpoint

What number titles the movie about Jackie Robinson?

Website investigation

What is your assigned site’s primary purpose?
Which design choices provide the strongest evidence?

A strong explanation

“It is sales because it has products.”

Which feature? Which CSSA category?
How does it help someone buy?

Evidence you can defend

Annotation #4 shows the price and reviews. These Content choices help visitors compare products and decide what to buy.

Checkpoint

What number titles the movie about the Spartans at Thermopylae?

Discussion

The big idea

CSSA tells us what goes into designing a website.

Purpose tells us why designers make those choices.

Same feature, different goals

An article. A video. A product.

The search bar is similar.
The visitor’s goal is different.

Accessibility and purpose

Captions help more people enjoy a video. Image descriptions help more people understand an image.

Exit Ticket

Wikipedia and Amazon both use search bars.

How does the same feature help each website achieve a different purpose?
